

WELCOME!

Starting college is an exciting adventure, but it's perfectly normal to feel a bit unsure as you find your footing. Everyone is on their own unique journey here, and Success Path is here to guide you with some helpful tips, important information, and other resources to make your college experience as successful as possible. We're thrilled to have you here and look forward to supporting you every step of the way!

Read on to get to know some friendly faces you can find at the CORD, along with some helpful tips to start your semester off right!

Ramon Baldares

Anna Ayala Barker

A COUPLE OF QUICK TIPS FROM FINANCIAL EMPOWERMENT

- Scholarships, loans, and other financial aid can require a full course load (12 credit hours) with passing grades. Start planning for academic success today to maintain your eligibility for next semester!
- Always be on the lookout for more scholarships! Check if your department has scholarship applications and click HERE for a guide to outside scholarships.

Eric Miller

Emerson Cochran

Sarah Beth Tyler is originally from Memphis, and she is excited to work with anyone who is interested in talking more about a possible shift in major. It's not too early to start a conversation about what you want to do with your life.

MEET THE MAJOR EXPLORATION COACHES

Taylor Whillock, originally from North Arkansas, is passionate about helping students navigate their academic and career paths. He enjoys guiding students to discover their values and choose a major that aligns with their life and career goals.

KIRSTIN'S KEYS TO THE CORD

During my time at the University of Arkansas, the CORD has quickly become one of my favorite spots on campus. Here's why I think you should definitely make a visit to the CORD.

- Grabbing a bite at the Drove or a coffee from Starbucks is incredibly convenient when I'm on the east side of campus.
- I can always find a comfy study spot, whether it's a table behind the welcome desk or a booth near the tutoring area.
- It's a one-stop shop for all my academic needs, with tutoring, the Writing Studio, Career Studio, and Peer Academic Coaching all in one place!
- The Welcome Desk is my go-to for any student-related questions; they'll either answer me directly or direct me to the right person.

